Profiles: Number of emails sent; select content Open Discussion

We are currently able to make customer selections (in profiles) based on the volume of emails sent, including filtering on a selected time period or mailtype. We'd like to add content-based filtering. This would enable selecting customers who have received a specific content multiple times (in the selected time period). This feature could be integrated into either the existing 'received email' rule or the 'number of emails sent' rule.
