Use generated content of "Send e-mail" in a "HTTP Request" Closed - Not enough votes

Users of our order management system would like to be able to see the transactional emails sent via Deployteq for an specific order. This way the users will be able to help our customers quickly.
For this we would like to send the generated content of "Send e-mail" via an "HTTP Request" to our order management system. Could this be made available inside the Environment or some other means so we can reference it in the "HTTP Request" block?
