field change listener as a single flow campaign trigger Open Discussion

Make it possible to set a listener to any customer field, so that it triggers a campaign as soon as the value of that field changes. Preferably even with both the old and new value of the field available in the flow as private environment values.
This way you can things like "if the value of field X just changed from this to that, I will now change also this, add to that group or send this message (etc)".
